

Key Informant Survey

- 1) Gambling is a fairly common activity in workplaces. Gambling activities can include raffles, lottery pools, and cards over breaks and lunch hours, or even organized trips to the casino/racetrack. Which gambling activities does your workplace participate in, if any?
- 2) In general, while learning to play a new game, such as Monopoly, it is important to learn all of the rules and know how the game works. Do you think it is important to learn about gambling games and how they work before you spend money playing them, and why?
- 3) Gambling is an activity that can be more easily hidden from family, friends and co-workers in comparison to using alcohol and/or drugs. What do you think is the best method for more people to become aware of the warning signs of a problem with gambling, and how to access resources and support?
- 4) In your opinion, do you think a problem with gambling is just as detrimental to an individual's overall health and wellness as a problem with alcohol and/or drugs may be detrimental? Please explain your answer.
- 5) How important is it to you that your workplace provide prevention and education opportunities for overall health and wellness, not at all important, somewhat important, or very important?
- 6) Please feel free to make any other comments you may have regarding this survey. Thank you! Your feedback is important!!!
